

Satkaam Quarterly Update

Mar 31, 2025

HIGHLIGHT OF THE QUARTER:

Our new program around Faculty interaction is a clear hit and we have now conducted about 5+ such sessions across universities including one which had faculty from 6 different universities together. You will find more details in the update for the quarter below

Satkaam University Program

- Our online program started towards the end of January, and we have completed 40 hours of online sessions till date, with the continued Tuesday and Friday sessions online. We have 36 colleges / universities registered for these online sessions with a student count of above 7,750 across all colleges.
- We have tweaked our sessions to focus on 4 key skills – Problem Solving; Curiosity & Inquisitiveness; Critical Thinking; and Articulation and started with sessions on these 4 and have intermixed every session to reiterate the importance of these 4 skills. Additionally, we also conducted a voluntary mid-term exam for students who were interested and allowed them to test these 4 critical skills. The participation in the mid-terms surpassed our expectations and this was a pleasant surprise.
- Face to face sessions have also been completed at 9 universities across the country and plans in place for another 8 colleges in the next 2 weeks. These continue to be the most impactful and typically end up with a very positive response from the students.

- We have successfully expanded beyond pure Engineering colleges and have also inducted a Law college from Goa (picture below), showcasing that the program is relevant across all disciplines and touches upon much needed skills for all professions.

- Our volunteers have participated in various panel discussions and Symposium's online and offline and been invited as experts to present at college / university programs in this quarter. This is a good proof point of increased interaction between the industry and academia, which Satkaam aims to keep improving.

- We also continue signing MOU's with different universities to strengthen our relationships with them

Satkaam Faculty Interaction Program

In our quest to increase the interaction between Industry and Academia, we have started faculty interactions with various universities and have completed 3 such sessions and 1 more large one (across faculty from 8 different universities) planned in the coming week. The goal is to share our learnings from the industry which can benefit faculty as well as to discuss and debate the influence of AI in today's education world. We aspire to keep increasing this new program as we are seeing good benefits from it.

Satkaam Entrepreneurship Program

We are in the midst of launching this new program and looking for volunteer universities which would be interested in conducting these programs. The plan here is to conduct these in a contiguous 3 day workshop fashion to help / guide / mentor students who plan to start a small business and looking for guidance from the industry. We have had initial discussions with a couple of universities and the plan is to conduct this in the break before the start of the next semester.

Satkaam Corporate Connect Program

The program we conducted last year at Barclay's has been very well received by them and they have initiated discussions for a repeat session in the coming year. Additionally, we have had a reach out from another company to potentially offer this program to their new recruits. We will keep you posted on the progress here.

Donations Update

We expanded our reach and got 18 different individuals donating to the Satkaam cause this financial year. This was without any marketing or reach out to any individuals. For anyone interested in donating to the cause, you can do it online at: <https://www.satkaam.org/donate>
